

LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

DESIGN INTERNSHIP: LORENA GRAU MURILLO

25 August - 22 December 2025

I am very happy to recommend Lorena following the completion of her internship as a Design Intern in my atelier. Although her internship was part-time, Lorena showed a genuine eagerness to be present and involved as much as possible, often offering to come in on additional days when the studio schedule allowed. From the beginning, she demonstrated a strong sense of commitment, curiosity, and care for the work — qualities that made her a very natural fit for both the studio environment and the brand itself.

Lorena assisted me with a wide range of day-to-day studio tasks and worked very comfortably both independently and with guidance. When assigned a list of tasks for the day, she was highly organized and methodical, working through each task carefully and keeping clear track of what had been completed and what remained open. Her task management and follow-through were consistently reliable, which made our collaboration smooth and efficient.

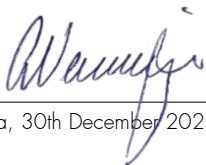

Creatively, Lorena has a refined eye and a strong sensitivity to detail. Her aesthetic and even her handwriting aligned beautifully with HERVÉ, which allowed her to translate design intentions in a way that felt very cohesive with the brand's visual language. When working on design-related tasks such as mockups on the mannequin, her precision and attention to detail stood out clearly. Her lingerie training and academic background were very evident in the care she brought to construction, proportion, and finishing.

Beyond hands-on design work, Lorena excelled in research and sourcing tasks. She was particularly strong in reaching out to suppliers and external companies, conducting structured research, and presenting her findings in clear, thoughtful overviews. Her written communication is professional, well-phrased, and confident — she handled emails and outreach with a level of maturity that is impressive for someone at such an early stage of her career.

Lorena has a clear interest in haute couture and fashion craftsmanship, which shows in the time and attention she gives to details and process. As a recent graduate entering the professional world, some aspects — such as time estimation and budget awareness — will naturally continue to develop with experience. That said, she shows all the right foundations: structure, discipline, sensitivity, and a genuine desire to learn.

I would gladly recommend Lorena for future internships or junior roles within fashion, lingerie, or atelier-based environments. She brings together aesthetic alignment, precision, organisation, and a calm, thoughtful working presence. It was a real pleasure to have her in the studio, and I am confident she will continue to grow beautifully as she finds her place in the industry.

Warm regards,
